The simple abstract should be written in English in a concise manner and contain all the information that allows the understanding of the work: introduction, objectives, methodology, results, discussion, conclusions and keywords. However, the text should be continuous, without topic separation. The introduction should be clear in order to relate the contribution of the research to the chosen area. Use the Word for Windows text editor (save the file in *.doc or *.docx format), Times font, size 12, single space, justified. The title should be written in capital letters in bold font Times 12 and centralized. Scientific names should be in italics (eg Penicillium digitatum). The names of the authors (centralized, font Times 12) in full form, separated by semicolons. Each abstract can have a maximum of 7 (seven) authors. At the end of each last name, the reference number of the author should be rewritten. Once the list of authors has been completed, the information about the authors (institutions separated by semicolons and the e-mail of the presenting author) must be included, Times 10, preceded by their reference number, also superscript. The text should be organized in A4 format (210 x 297 mm), lower and right margins of 2 cm, left and superior 2 cm. The text of the abstract must be run, without line change, justified and without paragraph indentation, with body text in Times font, size 12, simple space, according to the model available on the event website. The abbreviations, the first time they appear in the text, must be written in full, except for abbreviations already consecrated (ex: IBGE, Incra, Embrapa). If necessary, include in the acknowledgments, at the end of the summary, the granting of grants or research funding. Do not include tables, figures and bibliographical references. The full text, including title, author names, full addresses, abstract body and footnotes (acknowledgments, support, credits, etc.) must contain a minimum of 2,000 and a maximum of 3,000 characters, counting the spaces and must not exceed this page.

Keywords: three words separated by semicolons.
